ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE SETTLEMENT MECHANISMS

PREAMBLE

1. Alternative dispute settlement mechanisms, such as arbitration and mediation, are an “alternative” to litigation. Arbitration is a “method of dispute resolution involving one or more neutral third parties who are usually agreed by the disputing parties and whose decision is binding.”¹ Mediation is a “method of non-binding dispute resolution involving a neutral third party who tries to help the disputing parties reach a mutually agreeable solution”.² It is possible to agree to arbitrate or mediate before a dispute has arisen or after a dispute arises.
2. The purpose of this document is to provide information on certain alternative dispute settlement mechanisms for breeders’ rights. In that regard, it should be noted that UPOV does not provide alternative dispute settlement mechanisms.
3. The only binding obligations on members of the Union are those contained in the text of the UPOV Convention itself, and this information document must not be interpreted in a way that is inconsistent with the relevant Act for the member of the Union concerned.
4. Section I reproduces relevant provisions of the 1991 Act and the 1978 Act of the UPOV Convention. Section II provides information on certain dispute settlement mechanisms for breeders’ rights.

6. Document UPOV/EXN/CAL "Explanatory Notes on Conditions and Limitations Concerning the Breeder's Authorization in respect of Propagating Material under the UPOV Convention", paragraph 2, provides as follows (see http://www.upov.int/explanatory_notes/en/list.jsp):

"The UPOV Convention establishes the right of the breeder to make his authorization, for acts in respect of propagating material, subject to conditions and limitations. The conditions and limitations according to which a breeder may authorize the acts in respect of the propagating material are a matter for the breeder to decide."

7. For illustrative purposes, document UPOV/EXN/CAL, provides examples of conditions and limitations that a breeder might include in his authorization. With regard to conditions and limitations, the breeder may decide, if appropriate, to make his authorization subject to the acceptance that, in case of a dispute, the dispute will be submitted to alternative dispute settlement mechanisms (e.g. arbitration).

"The UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules provide a comprehensive set of procedural rules upon which parties may agree for the conduct of arbitral proceedings arising out of their commercial relationship and are widely used in ad hoc arbitrations as well as administered arbitrations. The Rules cover all aspects of the arbitral process, providing a model arbitration clause, setting out procedural rules regarding the appointment of arbitrators and the conduct of arbitral proceedings and establishing rules in relation to the form, effect and interpretation of the award" (extract from UNCITRAL's website see http://www.uncitral.org/uncitral/en/uncitral_texts/arbitration/1976Arbitration_rules.html).
