

ANTHONY PARKER

Anthony Parker is Canada's Commissioner of Plant Breeders' Rights at the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) and currently serves as President of the Council of the International Union for the Protection of New Varieties of Plants (UPOV). Raised on a farm, he developed an early appreciation for agriculture and innovation in plant breeding. He holds advanced academic degrees in both plant breeding and intellectual property law and has spent more than three decades in public service advancing plant variety protection, supporting agricultural innovation, and strengthening international cooperation in intellectual property systems for agriculture. Throughout his career, he has worked to promote an effective plant breeders' rights framework that benefit breeders, growers, and the broader agri-food sector.